In South Jakarta, a portion of the original home of Bapak, the founder of Subud, is currently under renovation. Renamed “Adi Puri”, the refurbished building will house a new enterprise of the same name, so that the building is financially sustainable.

The building is being transformed into a multi-use venue for musical and cultural events, a gallery/exhibition space, a Subud information centre, and will house the office of Yayasan Muhammad Subuh, the Indonesian affiliate of the Muhammad Subuh Foundation.

The name “Adi Puri” means a house or home that is beautiful, clean, peaceful, pleasant, comfortable, fresh, and of historical significance.

Renovation of the downstairs portion is hoped to be completed by March 12th, and the upstairs portion by June, 2008. The ability to keep to this time frame will be dependent on the funds available.

Ibu Siti Rahayu, a daughter of Bapak, explains:

[translated from Indonesian]

Dear brothers and sisters,

On behalf of Yayasan Muhammad Subuh, we ask for your support to renovate the 'Big House' in Cilandak that was once Bapak's Home, which is now managed by the Yayasan Muhammad Subuh.

Given the prospects for growth in Indonesia, especially in Jakarta, we have decided to renovate this building which is more than 40 years old, so that it can be more functional and have greater amenity as a potential gateway for the public to get to know about Subud.

We cannot achieve this goal on our own, so we want to call on the generosity of Subud benefactors who feel as we do and who are willing to give voluntarily, so that this building can become a heritage or resource for Subud generations to come. The assets of the Yayasan Muhammad Subuh are held on behalf of the Muhammad Subuh Foundation, which is the reason why we make this appeal not only in Indonesia but also hope the support will be from abroad as well. May our endeavour be blessed by Almighty God.
