WELCOME

Message from the Chair of the Muhammad Subuh Foundation

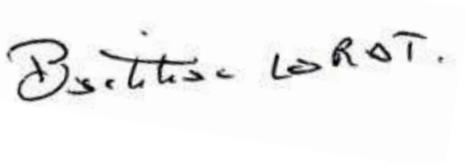

I am pleased to introduce our second Enews of the year. This is a very special edition as we have included advice given by Ibu Siti Rahayu. In her letter, Ibu clarifies the roles and responsibilities of our Foundation as well as the World Subud Association. Ibu reminds us of the vision Varindra Vittachi had for a Foundation that bears Bapak's name and provides advice on how to move forward.

We are also featuring a look at the archives project, and efforts by Subud members to preserve Bapak's words which began in the 1950s. In the Enews we also highlight our new grant/loan recipient and take a look at how past Foundation recipients are doing.

I would also like to express my appreciation for the recent bequests to the Foundation. These funds will be used for the long term growth of Subud and we will continue to ensure these funds are managed in a conservative way to build up the capital/assets for the next generation and to only use the generated income in a wise and prudent manner.

With Love,

Bachtiar Lorot

MUHAMMAD SUBUH FOUNDATION

Supporting The Aims Of Subud For A Better World

MISSION

The Muhammad Subuh Foundation honors the name of the founder of Subud, Bapak Muhammad Subuh Sumohadiwidjojo. It serves to build a lasting financial capacity for the Subud community, with emphasis on the long-term aims of the World Subud Association.

VISION

The Foundation envisages a Subud community that is active and effective in the world, in many fields of human endeavor. It supports this vision by providing financial and other assistance to a wide-range of activities and programs aimed at improving the condition of the communities they serve, including social and humanitarian work, cultural endeavors, child and youth

VALUES

As trustees of the Muhammad Subuh Foundation, we are guided in our work by the following values:

Integrity In making decisions and carrying out our actions, we are committed to working through personal integrity and best practice combined with inner guidance and common sense.

Openness We base our relationship with donors, recipients and the community on transparency, candor and mutual trust.

Diversity We value diversity of the human spirit and recognize the uniqueness of each human being and culture.

Sustainability We believe in effecting sustainable change that has transformational goals and measurable positive outcomes, recognizing that how things are done is as important as what is done.

A LETTER FROM

Ibu Siti Rahayu

Earlier this year, members of the World Subud Council, World Subud Association and the Muhammad Subuh Foundation asked Ibu Rahayu for advice on the roles and responsibilities of the two Subud organizations. Below is Ibu's response. Pamulang, 21st March 2013

Ibu Siti Rahayu at a recent talk in Rungan Sari, Kalimantan. Courtesy: Sofyan Tsang

Dear Luke, Bachtiar, and the MSF Trustees, and members of WSC,

I received Luke's letter and Bachtiar's letter, and I met with Olvia and Miriam to hear about MSF's activities. I have also read Varindra's original statements about MSF in the 'historical documents.'

As you know, I was a lifetime Trustee of MSF until I asked to be relieved of my duties. Indeed, at my age, it is no longer possible for me to be active and to follow all MSF's activities, nor to follow all the details. So, in response to your letters, I simply want to say that I support and agree with what MSF is doing and its role as a 'supporter'.

However, I need to remind WSA and MSF of their respective roles. It is important that those roles remain separate and do not overlap and become confused. If WSA's responsibilities are put on MSF, it could bring many risks to the development of Subud.

MSF was established at Varindra's initiative. It turned out that many members, having seen how the fortunes of enterprises rise and fall, were willing to give to MSF. Some left bequests; others, having followed Bapak's advice and enjoyed success in their enterprise, donated large sums of money. That money was given freely and willingly; MSF did not have to ask for it. Members gave out of love and gratitude to Bapak for what they had received by following the latihan. Although Bapak was no longer here, members gave to MSF because it carries Bapak's name; they felt confident that their donation would be safe and be used wisely to strengthen Subud for the long term. So, MSF is a vehicle for holding and maintaining Subud assets and for receiving donations and bequests from members and enterprises for Subud's long-term stability and security. MSF focuses on supporting Subud groups round the world to own latihan premises so that members can worship God freely. In addition, MSF supports International helpers travel to groups to ensure that groups follow the latihan in the right way. And, if it has the means, it supports the Wings.

The organisation[WSA] has always found it harder to raise money for running the organisation. Furthermore, those running the organization often want to make a difference during their term of office and so they develop ambitious plans and programs that they feel will benefit Subud. But because of the constant shortage of money, this can lead to frustration. Some may then think, 'Oh, MSF has lots of money and it is easy for MSF to get money. Since we are all working for Subud and since MSF is under WSA, MSF must support WSA.

Bapak and Varindra. Courtesy: WSA Archives, Canberra
Bapak confirmed that Varindra's dream of a Foundation named in Bapak's honor was a true dream.

This is where the danger lies. If the funding for those plans is put on MSF, since MSF is a 'supporter' and since the WSA appoints the MSF Trustees, the Trustees may feel pressured into providing that funding, even when MSF does not have sufficient income. But, if funds that members gave for Subud's long-term security get drained, the impact would be devastating for Subud. MSF would end up hounding members for donations and the trust that MSF enjoys would be lost.

Maintaining the members' trust in MSF is vital. If members stop trusting MSF – if they feel the money they give is not being used in the way they hoped, if they become disappointed or disenchanted - they would stop donating money to MSF. So, MSF must always act carefully and wisely and must never pressure members for donations or to make bequests.

In Subud, things do not work in the way they do outside Subud. In a normal organisation or association, those running it set plans and goals and have fundraising drives and raise money. But in Subud, it does not seem to work that way. Often when we set goals and push through plans and try to raise money, we are unsuccessful – little or no money comes. On other occasions, when we work quietly, in a steady and harmonious way, with a quiet sincere feeling and without expectation, the project or enterprise we work on develops and blossoms in an unexpected way. It is as if we are helped in a way we do not understand. But if we start to expect or count on that help, if our self-interest comes into play, if we start having disagreements with each other, then things go badly. This makes no sense in the normal way of looking at things, but this is a reality in Subud that many have witnessed.

In the past, fund-raising for the organisation was ISC's responsibility. It was not MSF's concern. We can look to how Harun Murray performed that role as ISC Chair, as a good model for how that worked. Harun actively sought donations from enterprises and members to fund the WSA's activities – such as annual meetings and the World Congress. And since Harun also advised enterprises on their business matters, many enterprises felt that they were being supported and were happy to donate to WSA. Now that the WSA Executive has replaced ISC, the WSA Executive Chair should take up that role.

However, it is important that the WSA chair does not get involved in fundraising. The WSA chair has the difficult task of maintaining the unity of the World Subud Association, to travel to meet groups, and to ensure the good standing of Subud with the authorities in the countries where Subud is present.

In truth, if we do not have sufficient funds for the organisation and its activities, it is okay to run things at a level that we can afford. If funds are plentiful, we can have an impressive organisation; when funds are scarce, we can be streamlined. We do not need to force ourselves to go beyond what we can afford. If WSA does not have the funding it needs for all its activities, such as meetings and travel, it is not necessary for WSC to always meet every year. There are cheap methods of communicating through the Internet that were not available in the past.

In the past, those who served the organisation often had their own business or enterprise and were financially stable. As a result, when Subud did not have enough funds, they would use personal funds. On the face of it, it seems wrong for someone, who is spending their time working for Subud, to have to spend their own money too.

Ibu Siti Rahayu was a trustee of the Foundation until 2005 when she resigned at the World Congress in Innsbruck.
Courtesy: WSA Archives, Canberra

Yet many who did that sincerely and willingly and without expectation were surprised to find that their business or enterprise went well while they were serving Subud. This is not something we can count on, but many have witnessed that.

Turning to Bapak's Legacy project, without Bapak's works, which are the source of Subud, we would not have Subud. Indeed, it is essential for members to have access to talks; without the understanding that comes from reading talks, one can never understand Subud. So, in this respect, it is right for MSF to support that activity - but only to the extent that MSF has the capacity to do so. MSF should not be put in the position of having to fundraise from members for that purpose. Secondly, MSF's support for WSA and the Wings should not be something that WSA can demand or look on as a right.

However, even though MSF Trustees are not responsible for fund-raising, they should not be passive either. The MSF Trustees, should if possible, find ways to use the assets entrusted to MSF to generate money to help cover the costs of maintaining those assets and even, if possible, to help Subud. In fact, all the wings should, if possible, take responsibility for their funding needs.

Those serving in the organisation and the helpers dewan need to realise that the four year term they have is a test for them in their lives – it is a test of their ability to work together in a harmonious way and to put into practice God's will.

Even those working on the kejiwaan side, the helpers need to be aware and sensitive to the state of Subud's finances. They should not take it for granted that funds will be available and travel simply for the sake of it. Before travelling, international helpers should look carefully at the need. And even the helpers can help improve the members' awareness that Subud needs money to function. So, when helpers give explanations about the latihan, they can also remind members of the importance of contributions.

Finally, I am going to propose that in future, if a surplus is generated from a world congress, that surplus should be entrusted to MSF. Some congresses make a loss and some generate a surplus. If there is a surplus, rather than letting the incoming WSC team sit back and live on that surplus as has tended to happen in the past, for the long term development of Subud, the surplus would be better used to bolster and develop those Wings that are weak and not functioning well. MSF should be the body to keep and manage those funds over the years.

So, in summary, I support MSF's role as a 'supporter' for WSA, provided that the WSA and MSF always work together in a co-operative manner while respecting their respective roles. Hopefully, this advice will clarify a situation that seems to have become somewhat confused.

Sincerely,

IBU,
Siti Rahayu Wiryohudoyo

A Major Milestone

Earlier this year a three-month quality assessment was completed by Amalijah Thompson and a qualified archival sound engineer to confirm that the first stage digitization Memnon had completed of the analogue recordings had been done correctly and to archival standards. .

The statistical outcome of that assessment were:

Of the 2,178 files possible to create from those original analogue:

- 10% (220 tape sides) not able to be digitized or needing intervention to enable digitization with unknown result because of tape deterioration/issues;
- 11.5% referred back for minor adjustment or checking by Memnon;
- 0.18% (4 tape sides) needing re-digitisation from the original recording;
- 78% files (tape sides) checked OK

On one recording, the audio of Bapak talking was completely unrecoverable. This is just one example of why it is so vital that we preserve and maintain Bapak and Ibu's talks for members today and future generations.

MSF consultant and professional archivist Amalijah Thompson has been involved in the project since the beginning and has been a major force in ensuring that the project is done well. Below are her thoughts on the importance of the talks.

It is essential that we manage and carry out our archival processes today in line with current global professional standards and knowledge so that we do no harm and can make decisions based on the breadth of knowledge that exists in the archival world which is designed to protect vital archival material into the future and ensure the impact of decisions and processes is fully consequent – best worldly practice is our essential first responsibility within the capacity of the resources we can provide. This ensures decisions are based, in reality, not on personal opinion or self interest.

This work is to ensure the continuation of the essence of Subud, the essence of the content we've received from Almighty God, and is passed on intact and complete and without 'alteration' according to our own very limited abilities.

“ We may never see that flourishing in our lifetime – that is entirely up to the One God Almighty – however, we can ensure that what we pass on to the future is not only stable and honourable and clear but is also uncontaminated by our own distortions and shortcomings in its essence.”

Working according to best worldly practice is our safety net as is working as one united body globally our safety net to ensure we have the resources we need to carry out our most essential responsibilities globally.

In my personal opinion perhaps it’s a case that the way to do this is for us all to make a concerted effort to build assets in MSF as a priority so that MSF can globally fulfill the role and function it is designed to carry out for the benefit of Subud as a whole. By building assets in MSF, MSF can help build Subud assets all over the world.

“The Foundation has provided approximately USD 160,000 for Memnon to carry out the most urgent work, but there is still much more that needs to be done. “

We can’t do this in isolated silos but we can do it using the examples Bapak showed us to work as one.

This project is not just about the physical process of preservation, it’s about our responsibility inwardly and outwardly to take better care of what we have been given by Almighty God so that Subud can, in His time and place, flourish and grow for the benefit of all mankind

We may never see that flourishing in our lifetime – that is entirely up to the One God Almighty – however, we can ensure that what we pass on to the future is not only stable and honourable and clear but is also uncontaminated by our own distortions and shortcomings in its essence.

The Foundation has provided approximately USD 160,000 for Memnon to carry out the most urgent work, but there is still much more that needs to be done. Bapak and Ibu’s recordings form an important and vital part of our Subud archives, which the World Subud Association (WSA) has the sole responsibility to look after and to preserve, for now and future generations of Subud members. In accordance with Ibu’s recent advice, in 2013 the Foundation plans to transfer the management and operation of the Legacy Project to the WSA.

FROM the ARCHIVES...

“ What Bapak says to you, Bapak has received directly from God.”

“ You should receive Bapak’s talk in a quiet inner state so that you can receive the words.”

Efforts to preserve Bapak’s words on tape goes back to the 1950s, when Bapak’s first talk in Coombe Springs, England was recorded on June 14th, 1957. As Subud developed around the world so did the archives. In the early years, ISC (International Subud Committee) was responsible for ensuring that these talks were of good quality and available to Subud groups and members. Following is an excerpt from Subud World News, May 1972 about this work.

Each one of us has experienced for himself what it means to listen to Bapak. Each of us has experienced the inner uplift a talk from Bapak gives us. Many groups have experienced that listening together to a talk from Bapak has resulted in more harmony, greater activity in Subud, and an increased awareness of the latihan kedjiwaan.

In more than 700 recorded talks Bapak has repeatedly given us explanations concerning the latihan kedjiwaan, his own experiences, the organisation of Subud, and all aspects of life in general. In addition to the latihan, these explanations form the basis of our daily life and work in Subud.

To make these talks available to the entire Brotherhood and to preserve them for future generations, the ISC Tape Unit was founded in 1968 when Richard Engels was in charge of organizing and co-ordinating all Subud tape activities on a world-wide basis.

WHERE ARE THEY Now?

Subud youth are energizing Subud Durham.

Subud Durham

In the fall of 2012, Subud Durham (North Carolina, US) found a 7.1-acre parcel in the countryside not far from town, offered for sale at a price far below market value: $85,000. We gulped, found private financing for $75,000, and dug deep in our pockets for the balance. This was a group that, three years before, had been daunted by the prospect of committing to a lease for a rented latihan space! We bought the land from a church, which had been using a double-wide trailer on the property for its services. Subud Durham is using it now as a hall for simultaneous men's and women's latihans three nights a week and one additional weekly latihan for men. Once a month the dewan and committee meet there for latihan; also once a month, the members meet there to watch a talk by Bapak (we have a projector and screen!), followed by latihan.

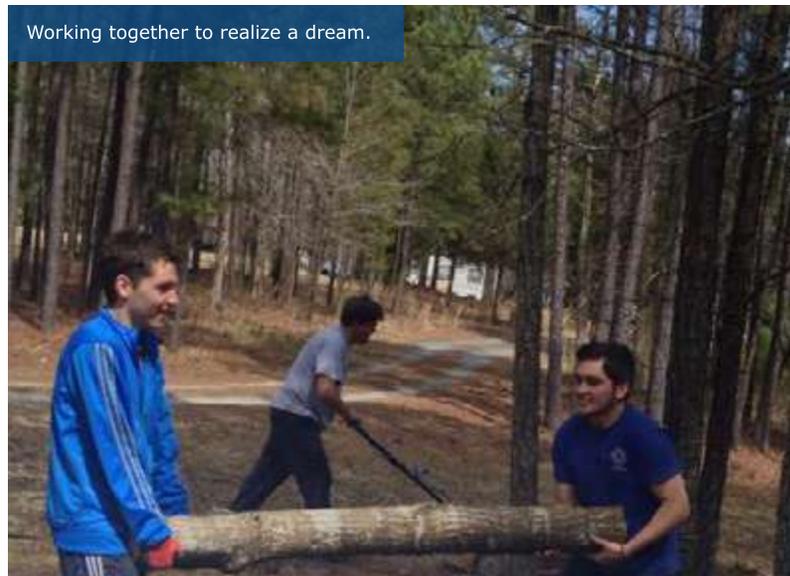

We're blessed, but not satisfied. The trailer doesn't have a long shelf life, and is far from ideal in terms of accommodating simultaneous latihans for large groups of men and women. We want this place to be a resource not only for our group but also for smaller Subud groups and for isolated members around the state. So the group gulped again and embarked on a project to build a new hall. We raised more than $12,000 in cash and received a $20,000 loan from Subud USA. The Muhammad Subuh Foundation has loaned us an additional $20,000 and added to that a grant for the same amount. The lender for the purchase of the land forgave $25,000 of the debt, increasing the group's capacity for the monthly payment on these loans. And we raised $25,000 more by selling three acres of the parcel to a group of Subud members, who plan to use it for a sustainable agriculture project. Hurray!

The budget is tight and we're still looking for ways to raise money for construction, but we expect to break ground on a purpose-built latihan hall this year. We would never have come so far without the support of Subud USA and MSF—which means, ultimately, the support of the international Subud community. To all of you, we send our deepest thanks. Please visit us on Facebook! <https://www.facebook.com/subud.durham>

When MSF asked us to contribute an article explaining what the new latihan hall means to us, we thought, who better to answer this question than Subud Durham's young people, who make this group so vibrant and motivated? Here's their response, written by Madelyn Ward (age 18) with help from Fatimah Bustillo (age 21).

--Subud Durham Committee

Working together to realize a dream.

United in One Place

By Madelyn Ward with help from Fatimah Bustillo, and Maya McGill

As a child of Subud, I have always known the love of my Subud brothers and sisters (and aunts and uncles) to be a special one. It belonged to nice ladies in long skirts who cooked delicious foreign meals, and gentleman with eyes that crinkled when they teased me and my sisters about how tall we'd grown. And this love belonged to kids who knew what I meant when I said the word "Subud." I always looked forward to visiting their homes for selamatans and hosting potlucks in our own house. But I experienced a place just for Subud only once. The atmosphere was heavenly—full of the light and peace of my beloved brothers and sisters.

Last year, my family and I moved to North Carolina, and Subud Durham. We were warmly welcomed by 25 members (12 of whom are under the age of 25) and nine more children too young to be opened. At that time, the group was doing latihan in a rented office—a less-than-ideal place for spiritual activity. Recently, by the grace of God, we were able to buy a seven-acre property with a trailer on it in which to do latihan.

Having our own property has been exhilarating. Here are some of the reasons why the youth of Subud Durham are excited about our new home:

"The best thing is that it's ours. You feel like it's a more special place. To be able to own it is like a gift from God." (Latimah – 23)

"Actually owning a place brings the group closer together, because when we were renting, it was much harder to feel like an actual group. Now, we can have group activities and include the younger children who are not doing latihan yet." (Fatimah – 21)

"We can be united in one place." (Fauzan – 15)

"The youth will have things to do during latihan." (Arief – 11)

"It gives us a sense of unity." (Luthfi – 17)

With our enthusiastic and hard-working members and with so many blessings from God, the future seems unlimited. Already, we've started a vegetable garden, hung a zipline, acquired a playground, hosted many birthday parties and barbeques, and roasted hot dogs around a bonfire while we swapped stories and experiences. We've used the trailer to watch Bapak talks, attend selamatans, hold fundraiser Zumba parties and bake sales (the youth are saving up to go to the world congress in Puebla!), and, of course, to do latihan. Future plans include a soccer field and volleyball court.

The group's first priority is to build a new latihan hall. Finding the funds to begin building the hall, planning the structure, and troubleshooting drawbacks has been our biggest and most exciting challenge!

When I think of all that the space can be in a few years' time, I almost wish I weren't about to leave home for college. I don't want to miss out on anything! I imagine the future Subud Durham to be a place where many generations of children will run around, explore, and play safely together while their parents do latihan inside. It will be a place where teenagers can laugh and talk together—probing the secrets of the universe and planning the next soccer game. Weddings will happen there, and groups of men and women will stay there all night during the Power nights of Ramadan. It will be a place where we can practice our latihan in privacy and comfort— a place filled with the light of my wonderful brothers and sisters, and peace.

BEQUESTS

Samuel visits a Subud supported school in DR Congo, 2009

Samuel Chapleau

Samuel Chapleau passed away on February 16th, 2013, surrounded by his three sons, Menez, Adrian and Geoffroy and his wife, Raphaëlle. Samuel devoted much of his Subud life to the work of SDIA and also the Muhammad Subuh Foundation. A few years ago Samuel travelled to DR Congo on behalf of the Foundation to provide an update on MSF funded projects. For many years Samuel also helped us translate newsletters and other materials to help bring information about the work of the Foundation to French speaking Subud Members. We thank him for his dedication to the work of the Foundation and for his generous bequest. Our prayers are with you dear Samuel.

Ilbert Walker was a very active Subud member since his opening in 1957.

Ilbert Walker

Former Subud Canada Chairman Ilbert Walker died on March 21, 2012 in London, Ontario. After a faith pilgrimage in his younger years, Ilbert was guided to Subud in 1957, and for the rest of his life remained an active and passionate member on four continents, as well as Canadian Chairman from 1990 to 1992.

"Ilbert's thirst for knowledge was constant - he never met a book or an intellectual conversation he didn't take interest in. He was a true gentleman in a bow tie who embodied ethics, integrity, kindness, and unselfishness. He lived his life with passion, understanding, and a true interest in the world that surrounded him." From Emma Murphy, Ilbert's daughter.

The Foundation would like to express its appreciation to Ilbert for his donation that will help sustain Subud members and benefit the Foundation's many humanitarian and social projects.

Simone and husband, Joseph Bob Paige, who passed away two years after Simone.

Simone Paige

The foundation would also like to express its gratitude for a donation from the estate of Simone Paige. A former trustee of the Muhammad Subuh Foundation, Simone passed away in 2010. The second portion of her bequest was recently received by the Foundation.

Simone was opened in Scotland in the 1970s and later moved to the US and settled in Philadelphia. She devoted much of her Subud life to helper work.

"Simone was a teacher, writer, mentor, and friend to many. She was a familiar face at many Subud gatherings, always making friends and looking for ways to help others. Simone was generous both with her time and financial support of various individuals and activities associated with Subud. She had a spritely demeanor and deep spiritual wisdom that is greatly missed."

Hermina was opened in Coombe Springs and was always active in Subud work, including MSF.

In Remembrance...

MSF National Liaison for Germany, Hermina Ruetz, passed away in Jakarta, Indonesia on April 29th surrounded by helpers and the Latihan. She had been dealing with cancer for many years. Opened in Coombe Springs, Hermina was one of the early members of Subud Germany and she was very actively involved in Wolfsburg with the establishment of the International Subud Association as a national organization. She moved to Indonesia in the late 1970s and led the organizing team for the 2001 Bali World Congress. After working in different areas, Hermina began making her own cheese and yoghurt in her small kitchen in Bali. This grew into a thriving enterprise called "Yummy" which employed 100 people. Today her products are found throughout Indonesia. Our prayers are with you, dear Hermina.
